How to get discounts from other users referrals?

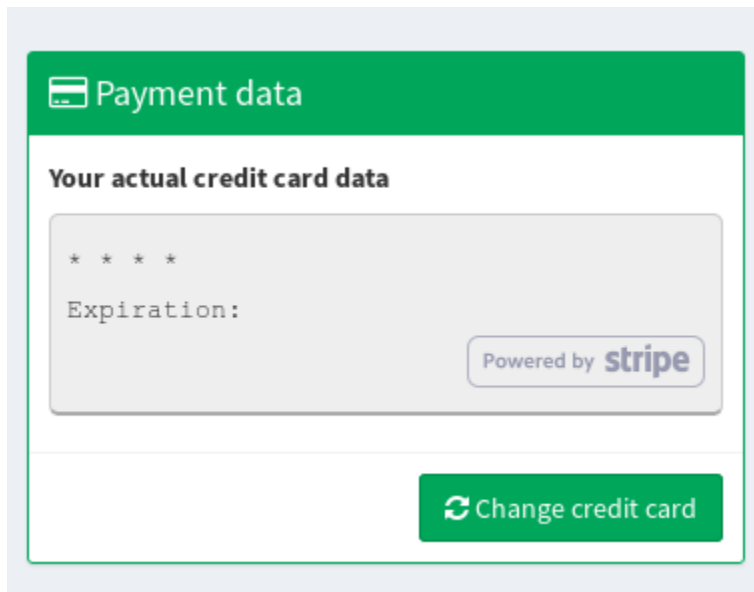

You have a unique reference code attached to your account, that you can check clicking on the 'gift' icon from the top toolbar, or from My Account->My subscription options.

Share your code among potential subscribers of XLSJuice, if they enter your code at the checkout, they will be granted with automatic discount, and you will also accumulate discount for your next renewal. Any number of users can enter YOUR code, so you can even get a free service if enough subscribers use your reference.

How can I change the credit card?

You can change invoice data and credit card attached to your account at My Account->Account dashboard option. Please note these changes will be reflected for next renewal.

The screenshot shows a user interface for managing payment information. At the top is a green header bar with a white credit card icon and the text "Payment data". Below this is a section titled "Your actual credit card data". Inside this section is a light gray box containing masked card details: four asterisks for the card number and the word "Expiration:" followed by a blank space. To the right of this box is a small button that says "Powered by stripe". At the bottom right of the section is a prominent green button with a white circular arrow icon and the text "Change credit card".
